

Wrenbury Primary School Newsletter

10th October 2025

My goodness we have had a busy week! We started with a wonderful harvest service. I always enjoy this service as it is a simple, kind thank you to the world around us. It is always great to see our families join us. It was lovely to see the church so full- it really was a squash and a squeeze! The children were so pleased to see all your friendly faces; the pride on their faces when they were able to share their work, songs and words was lovely to see. This week also saw Base 2 enjoy their termly school trip. They caught the train and ended up back in time at Nantwich Museum as part of the Civil war! Our Little Wrens and Base 1 have been enjoying their harvest themed learning with Little Wrens making bread from the story 'Little Red Hen' while Base 1 got stuck in with some harvest themed messy play! Both classes enjoyed their mystery reader this week – it is lovely to see how excited they are to see who appears at the door to read to them each week.

As part of their theme day, Base 3 gave their class assembly this morning, and they were simply superb! They had rehearsed this well and were very confident when speaking in front of the whole school. Well done, it is lovely to see your oracy skills grow. Base 4 have been polishing up their non-chronological reports on Anglo-Saxon Northumberland and getting their heads around multi-step subtraction with exchanges; they've packed plenty in, while Base 5 has continued exploring different pieces of music written by John Williams from the Harry Potter films and have started to compose a fanfare for the arrival of Henry VIII.

The Ugly Duckling

In assembly this week we explored the idea of being happy with who we are. We told the story of Pip the owl who didn't feel like she fit in with her friends. She then decided that she would try to be less like herself and more like her friends. She tried to be like sheep, seal, bear and spider but she just couldn't do it – she was owl and could only be owl. She soon realised that her friends wanted her for who she was, and this made her happy.

We then read the story of the ugly duckling and explored how important it is to be kind to those who are different and to believe in who we are because 'we all matter'- and that means ourselves too.

Cake sale!

Thank you for all the wonderful donations of cake. The children always enjoy our cake sales.

We will hold another sale on Monday as we have a few cakes left over.

Thank you to Mr Ellis and LSC!

Mr Ellis's company, LSC, have very kindly donated some balance beams for our outdoor, forest area. They look like a lot of fun. The House Captains will share these with the other children and teach them how to use them safely.

We would like to say a very big thank you Mr Ellis for arranging this for us.

Harvest donations : THANK YOU!

We had 6 huge crates of donations for our harvest appeal this year. Thank you to everyone who gifted something. It is lovely to know that there are so many people out there who will always think about the needs of others. We are very grateful.
