

30th January 2026

We say goodbye to January this week- it has been a month full of wonderful things and now we head to February; lighter mornings, emerging flowers and bird song. Wonderful! In school this week we have been working on a whole host of learning. Our Little Wrens and Reception classes have continued with their focus on dinosaurs and wow- they can tell you so much! Flo was so proud when she shared the sentence that she had written about them in drawing club- well done! Base 2 have been very busy with technology, using the iPads to learn all about coding. They showed great concentration when faced with challenges and worked together to help them overcome these creating great final pieces of work.

Base 4 have combined history and art this week and have been working on a piece of art focusing on the Sutton Hoo helmet. This artwork should come together to create something very special – I can't wait to see the final product! Base 5 have also been delving into history and used their developing oracy skills to discuss activists in history – it is a real joy to listen to the way they speak about William Wilberforce, Emmeline Pankhurst and Elizabeth Fry. They discussed the issues these people fought for and debated whether their methods to bring about change were right or wrong with passion, clarity and respect.

Base 3 theme day

Base 3 have thoroughly enjoyed a day dressed as the characters from their class story 'Wind in the Willows' by Kenneth Grahame. We have had toads, moles, badgers, rats, foxes and even an otter in their classroom today. The children have been busy getting creative and have worked collaboratively to design, create and evaluate 3D models to represent the children's favourite aspects of the story, from Mr Toad's Toad Hall and Ratty's rowing boat to Toad's motorcar and Mole's underground house. The ended with a presentation assembly to the rest of the school showcasing our models and sharing the story.

Assemblies:

In assembly this week, we read about story which looked at worries and what to do when we have them. In the story, Felix seemed to have worries grow like a big red balloon which then stopped him from doing things he wanted to – like join in football games at playtime. His dad then gave him a tip – to hold up his hand in a star shape and to breathe in and out while gently pinching the tip of his fingers. Felix did this 3 times and it really helped him to feel better. We all tried this – it really does work! We also thought about other things that help us, sometimes a hug is all we need, we agreed that sharing worries always helps and that we also needed to fight these worries and tell them to go away.

Celebrations:

This week we'd like to celebrate Daisy and her continued swimming achievements. Daily has now completed her Silver Swimming award badge and swam 300m of mixed strokes with tumble turns at the ends too! Daisy, we are all very proud of you. Keep up the hard work- it won't be long until you reach that gold!. Isaac and Seb both achieved Player of the Match awards, while Griff was also recognised with an award for his recent boxing event. Well done to all for your achievements.
